DROWNS IN RIVER

Lillian Kollman Meets Death in the Wisconsin River While Bathing With Companions

A shocking accident occurred in the northern part of the city on Friday afternoon, when Lillian Kollman was drowned while in bathing. The exact details of how the affair occurred cannot be told very accurately by the other girls who were with her, as they were all so excited and interested in saving her sister that nothing was known of the little girl's trouble until she had disappeared from sight and it was all over.

Five of the girls had gone to the river to bathe, there being Lillian and Ellen Kollman, Cassie and Stella Mahoney and Cecile Arpin. The place they selected was north of the Green Bay bridge a short distance where there was apparently a nice bathing beach. Ellen, the older of the two Kollman girls, entered the water first, and waded out from shore a distance, when she suddenly found herself in deep water. She immediately called for assistance, and the other girls, who had a couple of life preservers, rushed to help her, and succeeded in getting her into water that was shallow enough so that she could take care of herself. It was then noticed that Lillian Kollman was missing, and nothing was seen of her until she was taken from the water an hour later.

Help was immediately summoned and several men who responded attempted to recover the little girl by diving, but were unable to do so, it being about an hour after the accident when Peter Love and Will Collier took the body from the river.

Dr. Looze and a number of assistants attempted to resuscitate the girl but were unsuccessful notwithstanding the fact that the work was kept up for some time.

Where the girls were bathing it is reported that the water runs out about for a considerable distance and then suddenly drops off into quite deep water, so that one wading out would imagine themselves secure until suddenly they found themselves in water over their head.

Lillian, the drowned girl, was twelve years old, was a bright little girl and a general favorite with all who knew her, and her parents have the sympathy of the entire community in their affliction.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon from the home, Rev. C. A. Mellicke conducting the services.

Hold Annual Meeting.
The members of the Congregational church held their annual meeting on Friday evening. The officers elected for the following year were as follows:

Trustees—F. J. Wood, Geo. W. Mead, E. W. Ellis, John Schwenk and Mrs. Geo. R. Gardner.
Clerk—Mrs. J. W. Natwick.
Treasurer—Guy O. Babcock.
Chorister—T. A. Taylor.
Finance Committee—Geo. W. Mead, E. L. Hayward, Geo. M. Hill, J. W. Natwick and Miss Ella Hansen.

The matter of building a new and modern church was discussed and the sentiment was in favor of such a proposition.

Funeral of Henry Hanson.
The body of Henry Hanson arrived in this city on Tuesday for burial. He was later taken to the town of Saratoga where interment was made.

Mr. Hanson had been at work for the St. Paul Railroad company in the state of Montana, being one of the steel gang of the bridge building crew, and was drowned while at his work by falling from the structure he was working on.

The funeral services were held at the Moravian church, the remains being interred in the cemetery at Saratoga.

Gettys-Eberhard.
Miss Martha Gettys and Fred Eberhard were married on Thursday evening at the home of the bride's parents on the east side. Rev. E. Meack officiating.

Miss Clara Kluge acted as bridesmaid and Edward Eberhard as best man. Both of the contracting parties are well and favorably known in this city. They have gone to homekeeping on Eighth street. The Tribune extends congratulations.

Increase in Salaries.
Commencing with July 1st some of our postal clerks and carriers have received an increase in salary.

Otto Mickelson, Lynn Reine and Geo. Otto, the three oldest carriers, have been raised to $1000 per year, while Mr. Marvin has been put on the $900 list. Mayne Waterman and Carl Oederud raised to $800 and W. B. Raymond to $900.

Portage is Beaten.
The game between the local team and the Portage baseball team on Sunday resulted in a score of 5 to 1 in favor of the locals. Had not the visitors rather gone to pieces at one time it would have been a pretty close game, as the visitors brought a pretty good team with them.

Miss Mattie Eronson, who has been teaching at Abnashville during the past year, returned to her home on Grand Ave. where she will spend her summer vacation. She was accompanied by the Misses Bertha and Mollie Mayes who will remain in the city for a few weeks visit.

Fire at City Point.
C. W. Kern of City Point was in the city Friday and reported that his saloon building and the postoffice had been burned down the previous Tuesday night.

The fire originated in the postoffice and was well under headway before it was discovered and nothing could be done to save either the building or contents. The saloon building was also saved and the time it was discovered and nothing of value could be saved. Mr. Kern reported his loss at about $2,000 with insurance to the extent of $1200. Both structures will be rebuilt in the immediate future, and Mr. Kern's visit here on Friday was for the purpose of interviewing the Keady Co. in order to get a new set of saloon fixtures for the place.

Smashed the Buggy.
Mrs. E. B. Fritzinger suffered a sprained ankle on Thursday as the result of being thrown from a buggy while riding with Mrs. Frank Lind. The accident was caused by the axle of one of the front wheels breaking off, allowing the little to strike the horse's heels, with the result that the ladies were thrown out and the buggy badly demolished. Mrs. Fritzinger was not badly hurt and has since been able to be about.

Will Make Improvements.
J. E. Daly, who recently purchased the opera house from Wm. Scott reports that he has had some figuring done on the matter, and that he intends to fix the place up to some extent, so that it will be a more popular place of amusement. He is not prepared to say just what changes will be made at the present time, but says that there will be a difference in the appearance of the place.

Death of Thos. LaVaque.
Thomas LaVaque, one of the old residents of this section, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. M. Belmer, on Saturday, June 27, after an illness extending over several months, death being caused by erysipelas.

Deceased was born in Sovel, Canada, Jan. 27, 1826, and was therefore 82 years and five months old at the time of his death. On the 21st of June, 1857, he was married to Miss Arline Joyvin, and from this union there were sixteen children, eleven of whom are now living. They being Arline, Mrs. Emma Walsh of Iron River, Thomas and Louis LaVaque of LaCrosse, Mrs. Jas. Connors of Chicago, Mrs. John Daniels of Thorp, Jos. Mr. LaVaque was attacked with erysipelas two months ago, and later complications developed, so that it was apparent that he could not recover. He had been a robust man all his life and had never suffered from any sickness. Mrs. LaVaque is still living, the aged couple having celebrated their golden wedding about a year ago.

The funeral services were held from the Catholic church on Monday at 10 o'clock in the morning. Rev. Wm. Redding officiating.

UNCLE DICK'S WONDERFUL SKYROCKET

JIMMY BRODERICK'S Uncle Dick was not only a great inventor, but one of the kindest men that ever lived.

Although he earned his living by inventing useful things like automatic plows that would plow a whole field in the night, the farmer who had a few acres, and automatic fish traps that would hold their own hooks and throw out their own lines and pull in their own fish and take them off and bait the hooks over again, still Uncle Dick was ready at a minute's notice to drop all that sort of thing and invent something to give a boy pleasure.

And you will agree that a nephew who has no uncle like that has a misfortune.

When the time came, Uncle Dick gave Jimmy a big piece of lighted punk and then he stood in front of the tree and said:

"Ladies and Gentlemen: You will notice that this tree is inclined toward the north. My calculations will tell me that when the rocket is lit it will pull the tree clear out of the ground and go north for at least 1,000 miles, which will bring it over uninhabited country, where it will fall without hurting anybody, unless a bear or a moose should go in the way. Now, Jimmy, touch her off!"

Jimmy touched the end of the fuse and then everybody ran away to a safe distance. The tree climbed swiftly, and suddenly with a bang that shook the hills and broke the windows even in towns 100 miles away, the giant rocket went off.

Out came the tree, roots and all, and sailed gently into the sky with a hissing trail of fire behind it. The amazed onlookers saw the tree, roots and all, and sailed gently into the sky with a hissing trail of fire behind it. The amazed onlookers saw the tree, roots and all, and sailed gently into the sky with a hissing trail of fire behind it.

Uncle Dick rubbed his hands and chuckled like any child when he saw the material.

"You shall certainly have a skyrocket," said he to Jimmy. "And the best of it is that the greater part of the country for hundreds of miles around will have one, too."

Jimmy was very curious and still more puzzled, but he knew that Uncle Dick did not like to explain his inventions beforehand, so he asked no questions, but merely kept his eyes open and did not go out of sight of the inventory shop all morning.

Before noon a great gang of men arrived, and under Uncle Dick's orders they began to carry all the material to the pasture, where they deposited it around a huge old dead pine tree that stood smooth and straight reaching into the air fully 80 feet without a branch to break it except on the very top, and that was soon gone, too, for Uncle Dick sent men up there and they topped it off so that then the tree stood sleek and smooth like a mast.

Then the sheets of pastebored were laid on the ground and rolled into a great cylinder 30 feet long and at least ten feet in diameter.

As soon as a sheet was rolled into shape the men tied it tightly with yards on yards of rope and then another sheet was rolled around the first and more rope tied around that and so on until all the pastebored had been used up, and that was a lot that took the men all day with the hardest kind of work.

The next day they opened the cases of powder and began to load it in and in, hour after hour, until the last grain was packed in good and hard, and Jimmy's Uncle Dick said:

"So! There's 800 pounds of powder in there! That ought to make her fly!"

"But how about the stick?" thought Jimmy. He did not say it, knowing how easy it is to spoil an inventor's ideas by interrupting him with frivolous conversation.

He was to learn very soon how about the stick, for as soon as the mighty cylinder was all finished, Uncle Dick had a derelict rigged, and up went the big thing until it dangled alongside of the dead pine tree near the dizzy top of it.

Then mighty cables were sent up and the men lashed the loaded pastebored cylinder to the tree until it was completely hidden by ropes.

"Now for the fuse," said Uncle Dick. He set the men to work untwisting ropes until they had more than 300 feet all unravelled. Uncle Dick went up the derrick and put the end of the unravelled rope into the bottom part of the rocket. Then he poured kerosene oil all over it and rubbed gunpowder into it.

"That afternoon Uncle Dick sent out invitations by mail and by messenger to places as far away as 200 miles, saying:

"Jimmy Broderick respectfully invites you to his Uncle Dick's farm to see him set off the biggest skyrocket in the world on the evening of the Fourth of July."

Uncle Dick also sent word to the papers about it, and on the evening of the Fourth more than 10,000 people were at the farm, wondering at the immense skyrocket and trembling all over at the thought of the explosion when she went off. And all over the land people who could not go to the farm were watching the heavens and paying very little attention to the other fireworks of the United States, because the papers had told all about the rocket and had explained that it could be seen hundreds of miles when it went up.

When the time came, Uncle Dick gave Jimmy a big piece of lighted punk and then he stood in front of the tree and said:

"Ladies and Gentlemen: You will notice that this tree is inclined toward the north. My calculations will tell me that when the rocket is lit it will pull the tree clear out of the ground and go north for at least 1,000 miles, which will bring it over uninhabited country, where it will fall without hurting anybody, unless a bear or a moose should go in the way. ### BIG FIRE RAGES IN OCONTO.

Half a Million Cedar Poles, and Shingles and Posts Destroyed.

Oconto.—One of the fiercest fires that has visited Oconto in many years broke out in the Pendleton & Gilkey cedar yard. The fire started east of the pickle factory and, fanned by the high wind, soon spread through the entire yard. It is estimated that about 500,000 poles, besides a large number of cedar shingles and posts, have been destroyed, together with two box cars and one flat car standing on the side track. The supposition is that the fire started from a spark from the mill, which started up in the morning to saw posts. The two mills belonging to the firm, one of which is almost a century old, were saved by hard work. The entire yard was burning. The strong wind made it difficult for the firemen to work.

WISCONSIN STORM IS FURIOUS.

Towns Badly Battered by High Wind, Hail and Rain—Serious Damage.

Prairie du Chien.—This city and many other places in Wisconsin were badly battered by a furious storm of rain, hail and wind. It lasted 40 minutes and buildings were unroofed, windows smashed, trees uprooted and crops ruined. The city telephone exchange and the telephone exchange were put entirely out of service. La Crosse reports that a terrific wind and hail storm swept from Wisconsin down the Mississippi to Dubuque. The wind did considerable damage. The big tent in which the Chautauque is being held at the La Crosse Interstate fair grounds was blown down, burying 1,500 people underneath. None, however, were seriously injured, although many were painfully bruised. Capt. R. P. Hobson was the principal attraction at the Chautauque for the day, but he had left the tent before the storm broke.

CHETEK MAYOR RESIGNS.

Since Drowning of His Son He Gives Up Re-Election.

Chippewa Falls.—Dr. W. C. Malcomb has resigned as mayor of Chippewa Falls, which meets July 7, will probably choose Byron Carter as his successor. ### OVERCOME BY SMOKE; EXPIRES.

Thomas Coughlin Dies in Fire Near Menomonee Falls.

Menomonee Falls.—Thomas Coughlin, a farmer, was suffocated in a fire recently in the same house in which his sister received burns from which she died three years ago. Mr. Coughlin was in the village and when he reached home, two miles northeast of here, he saw smoke issuing from the building. He hastily tied his team, procured a ladder and entered the second story window, presumably to rescue valuable papers. He succeeded in throwing out a trunk, but before he could do more he was overcome and expired before help could reach him. Neighbors took the body out of the building before the house was totally destroyed. Mr. Coughlin was 60 years of age, a bachelor and lived alone. The cause of the fire is not known, but it is believed it originated in the kitchen, where Mr. Coughlin left immediately after dinner.

RECIPES FOR EASILY MADE AND APPETIZING LUNCHEON DIET.

Bean Croquettes.—Use one pint of white soup beans, one tablespoonful of vinegar, one tablespoonful of molasses, one tablespoonful of butter, salt and cayenne to taste. Boil the beans and when done press them through a colander, then add the other ingredients, mixed well, and stand away to cool. When cold form into small balls. Dip first in egg and then in bread crumbs and fry in boiling fat.

Cheese Croquettes.—Use one-fourth cup butter, one-fourth cup flour, two-thirds cup milk, yolks of two eggs, one cup mild cheese cut in small pieces, one-half cup of milk cheese, grated, salt and pepper. Make a thick sauce of the first three ingredients and add yolks of eggs and stir well, then add cheese.

As soon as grated cheese melts remove from the fire and season with salt and pepper. Spread in a shallow pan and cool.

Turn on a board, cut in small squares or strips, dip in crumbs, egg and crumbs again, fry in deep fat, and drain on brown paper.

Lobster Croquettes.—Use two cups of chopped lobster meat, one-half teaspoonful of mustard, three grains of cayenne, one teaspoonful of lemon, one cup of thick white sauce, add seasoning to lobster. Then add thick white sauce. Cool, shape, dip in crumbs, egg, and crumbs again, fry in deep fat, and drain.

Chicken Croquettes.—The breast of a roast fowl, two parts, of polished tongue and part, and of truffles one part. Mince all these fine and mix them together.

Melt a piece of butter in a saucepan, stir a little flour into it, then put in the above mixture and moisten with a small quantity of stock. Add some finely minced parsley, pepper, salt and nutmeg to taste.

Stir it on the fire for a few minutes, then stir in the fat, the yolks of one of two eggs beaten up with the juice of a lemon and strained. Spread out this mixture, which should be pretty stiff, on a marble slab, and when it is nearly cold fashion it into small portions in the shape of balls or cones.

Dip each in beaten up egg and then roll it in fine bread crumbs. Repeat this operation after the lapse of an hour, and after a similar interval fry the croquettes in hot lard to a golden color. Serve on a napkin with plenty of fried parsley.

MAKING SAUSAGE AT HOME.

Carefully Prepared Ingredients Necessary for Success.

Homemade Sausage.—There are many variations in making sausage, but only in the proportions of the ingredients used. Most of them require a pound of meat, a good combination being five pounds lean, including part tenderloin, with two pounds of fat pork. Mince thoroughly, putting through a meat grinder two or three times, then season, using to each pound of the chopped meat a heaping teaspoonful of powdered sage, a level teaspoonful of salt and a third of a teaspoonful of pepper. Pack in jars or small cotton bags, and cover fully an inch thick with melted lard. Keep in cold storeroom.

Oxford Sausage.—Use for these a pound each of finely chopped veal, pork and beef suet. Mix through this a quart of bread crumbs, the grated peel of a half lemon and a grated nutmeg, half each of savory, thyme and sweet marjoram and a tablespoonful powdered sage leaves. Make in cakes and fry in a little hot butter.

Against Carpet Moths. The following recipe is invaluable to cause the death of the carpet bag or Buffalo moth.

One ounce of alum, one ounce of chloride of zinc, three ounces of salt. Mix with two quarts of water and let stand over night in a covered vessel.

In the morning pour carefully in another vessel, so as to leave sediment behind. Dilute this with an equal quantity of water by sprinkling the edges of the carpet for a distance of a foot from the wall. This is all that is necessary. They will leave anything that is sprinkled with this solution, which will not injure the texture or color.

Mayonnaise Dressing. Again comes the quest of the mayonnaise dressing. It is easily prepared once you master its quality. The usual rule is to allow one cupful of oil, five teaspoonfuls of vinegar, one level teaspoonful each of mustard and salt, one-half teaspoonful of sugar and the yolks of two eggs. The oil is to be added in small quantities, the ingredients until very light, add the oil, a little at a time, until the mixture begins to thicken, then it may be added in larger quantities, alternating it with vinegar.

Peas with Parsley Sauce. A pleasant variety in serving peas will be found in adding a parsley sauce. To half a peck of peas add several sprigs of chopped parsley and boil as usual. When the peas are thoroughly cooked strain on the liquid, which should be about two cups. This will contain most of the parsley. To this add a little cream, butter, salt and pepper. The parsley will give the peas a delightful flavor and the dish will be found unusually palatable. Good Housekeeping.

Lemon Sauce. Four level tablespoonfuls of butter, one cupful of sugar, yolks of two eggs, one-third cupful of boiling water, one-fourth cupful of lemon juice, grated rind of one-half a lemon. Cream the butter, add the sugar, egg yolks well beaten and water. Place over hot water and stir until the mixture thickens; then add the lemon juice and rind, and serve.

Scrambled Eggs in Biscuit Cases. Take baking powder biscuits and cut a circle through the top crust, down through the middle; remove the crumb, butter the inside and fill when reheated with scrambled eggs. Scatter chopped parsley over the top. Harper's Bazar.

Make Watch Pocket. Make a small pocket, a little larger than the watch and sew on the inside of the skirt, below one side of the pocket flap on the belt. It is easy to slip the watch in and once there it cannot get lost. In this summer dresses the pockets can be made of the same goods as dress and will never show.

Tough Fowl Tender. To make a tough fowl tender, add a pinch of baking soda to the water in which it is boiled.

From the State Capital

Items of Importance to Wisconsin People, Gleaned at Madison.

Dairy Produce Men Complain of Roads.

The state railroad commission held hearings on ten cases involving alleged overcharges for freight service, alleged excessive rates on several different commodities, passenger train service and station facilities. One of the most important cases involved the question of concentration freight rates on butter and eggs. The petitioners, the T. H. Cochrane company of Portage and the H. B. Webb Produce company of Rothschild, alleged that the railroad companies have recently cancelled their concentration rates on butter and eggs, which has had the effect of practically doubling the old rates and has made the dairy produce business in the interior of the state unprofitable. R. L. Cochrane of Portage appeared for the petitioners. He said that the business of the Cochrane company amounted to about $16,000 a month. The railroads, he said, had delivered a heavy blow to the dairy produce business at Portage and other cities in the interior of the state. William Ellis, who represented the Milwaukee road, contended that the commission did not have authority to compel the railroad companies to give concentration rates to a certain class of dealers in certain cities. If the rates on butter and eggs were excessive, the commission he said, had authority to order them reduced, but that was a far different thing than ordering special rates for special classes of persons at special points. The commission took the case under consideration.

Maxon Wins Over Gates.

The supreme court refused to allow "Dr." Heinrich of Milwaukee to submit a recantation for $2,000 in cash which he deposited as surety for his appearance when his trial for alleged violation of the state medical law is called. The appeals in two cases against the Kenosha Electric Railway company were dismissed. In the case of Glenway Maxon against James L. Gates, the judgment of the lower court in favor of Mr. Maxon was modified by reducing the award of damages from $22,750.61 to $17,750.61 and as so modified the decision was affirmed. Maxon sued Gates for breach of contract for the sale of a large tract of land in Ashland and Port counties in 1903. The supreme court held that there was a valid contract for the sale of the land. A vote of three to three with Justice Thulin not taking part, the supreme court affirmed the judgment of the lower court in non-suiting Peter A. Hagenah of Milwaukee, a laborer. In his action against the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company for $10,000 damages for personal injuries, Hagenah was employed by the Wisconsin Telephone company on a street in Milwaukee. The case hinged on the question of contributory negligence. The lower court held that he was negligent and this decision was affirmed by the supreme court.

Northern Railroad Protest.

The state railroad commission received and took under consideration a motion made by Attorney E. H. Bottom, representing the Milwaukee Northern Railway company, for the dismissal of the petition of the Milwaukee & Fox River Valley Railway company for a certificate of public convenience and necessity to enable it to build a new line of road from Milwaukee to Kaukauna and other cities in the Fox river country. Attorney Bottom filed a long brief in support of his motion and Kronshage, McGovern & Fritz, representing the petitioning company, filed one against the motion.

State Officers Are Pleaded.

Gov. Davidson, Secretary of State Frear, State Treasurer Dalt, Attorney General Gilbert, State Insurance Commissioner Beede and other officials from Madison who attended the Republican national convention, returned home and all expressed themselves as being pleased with the nominations. ### Makes Appeal to Governor.

Patther Pietra, of the Catholic church in Florence, who is leading a fight for the betterment of the Italian laws, has appealed to Gov. Davidson and Attorney General Gilbert. He claims that he has neither the sympathy nor the cooperation of the town and county officers. Gov. Davidson has promised to take vigorous action if proof of the negligence of officials is filed with him.

Made War on Sick Cows.

"Wisconsin for cattle killed because they are affected with tuberculosis," said Secretary John M. True of the state board of agriculture. "As an offset, the state will receive about $15,000 in damages from the federal government for the loss of live stock and for the cost of slaughtering and slaughtering for food purposes. This means that the net cost to the state in killing cattle affected by tuberculosis this year will be about $35,000."

Merely Catching Crabs.

What Congress Did.

In summing up what good things done by the last congress Congressmen James Davidson of Oklahoma had rather to strain himself in a recent interview to enumerate enough wrongs. Among other things he stated that the "the subject of the tariff is another on which congress wisely moves with caution, but the very evident necessity of early revision of some of the schedules resulted in a final step in that direction by the appointment of a joint commission to conduct a thorough investigation, etc." Mr. Davidson failed to state that this was a most effectual way of doing nothing. It will certainly take a lot of convincing talk to make us believe that the last congress accomplished anything of importance.

Aylward Announces Candidacy

Madison, Wis., June 29.—City Atty. John A. Aylward today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor at the fall primaries. His announcement follows:

"To the Democrats of Wisconsin: In response to numerous requests from leading Democrats throughout the state, I herewith announce myself a candidate for the nomination for governor on the Democratic ticket at the primaries to be held in September.

"Some of these requests have been put on the ground that having led the party two years ago, I owe it as a duty to the party to lead in the approaching campaign. Others of these requests have been put on the ground that having made a fight two years ago when the contest was a hopeless one, I should be given an opportunity to make it now when there is some probability of success.

Appreciates Kindly Spirit.—"I appreciate the kindly spirit and the confidence which these requests signify and accept the generous invitation to become a candidate and I hope that, if nominated, I may be of material assistance to the party in the state.

"Although the contest two years ago was a hopeless one, yet I am proud to honor the Democrats of the state did me in naming me as their candidate for governor. I sought to conduct a clean, dignified, aggressive campaign and hope in doing so I justified the confidence reposed in me. My position on public questions, both national and state, is known. I am thoroughly in sympathy with Mr. Bryan and the principles of our party both state and national.

For Vigorous Fight.

"The time is ripe for a strong, vigorous, aggressive campaign for Democratic principles.

"If nominated I shall make the strongest campaign I am capable of making. If elected, I will devote all my energies to carrying out the promises and moral pledges made by our party to the people of the state.

The Republican Party is in Full Retreat.

The republicans who attended the national convention as spectators and joined in the demonstration in favor of President Roosevelt and Senator LaFollette must have felt indignant as they watched the public stockholders running over each other in their effort to get away from the LaFollette reforms, some of which had been endorsed by the president himself. Congressmen Cooper, of Wisconsin, representing the LaFollette men, brought in a majority report signed by himself alone. Fifty-two members of the committee signed the majority report, and one signed the minority report. The republican party will find the ratio of fifty-two to one a very embarrassing one to deal with in the coming campaign. Mr. Cooper's report contained a declaration in favor of publicity as to campaign funds. It was lost by a vote of 89 to 94, more than nine to one, and yet the president has been advocating legislation in favor of publicity as to campaign contributions, and Secretary Taft wrote a letter to Mr. Burrows advocating the passage of a publicity bill. How fortunate it was that Secretary Taft's letter was finally discovered and published! Senator Burrows, the man to whom the Taft letter was addressed, was the temporary chairman of the convention, and the convention over which he presided turned down the publicity plank by a vote of nine to one! Who will deny that, on this subject, the republican party is retreating?

Another plank of the LaFollette platform authorized the securing of the value of the railroads. This plank was lost by a vote of 97 to 68—nearly fifteen to one—and yet President Roosevelt has advocated this very proposition. Here is a retreat on the railroad question.

In another column reference is made to the injunction plank. The injunction plank adopted by the republican convention is a retreat from the position taken by Secretary Taft in his speeches, although neither of them went as far as they ought to have gone in their effort to prevent what is known as government by injunction. Here is the third retreat.

The president has advocated the income tax as a means of preventing swollen fortunes and of equalizing the burdens of government. The republican platform is silent on this subject. Was the president right in the position he took? If so, then the convention was wrong in not endorsing him. Will the republican voters follow the president in this just demand or will they follow the republican organization in retreating from it?

The president advocated an inheritance tax, but the republican convention is silent on that subject. Was the president ahead of the republican party in advocating this reform, or has the republican party receded from the president's position? Did the president give a false alarm on this question or has the party sounded a retreat?

In the president's message to congress last spring he presented an indictment against the conspiracy formed among the great law-breakers to prevent the enforcement of the law and to evade the punishments provided by law. The platform adopted by the republican convention contains no intimation of danger. If there are any conspiracies, the convention did not see them; if there are any combinations, it had not heard of them; if there are any dangers ahead, it was unconcerned of them. Was the president mistaken when he issued his defiance, or are the republican managers deceived when they think that an aroused public will calmly contemplate the encroachments of predatory wealth.

The convention, by vote of 896 to 114—more than seven to one—voted the plank in favor of the popular election of United States senators. It is true that the president and Secretary Taft have never advocated the popular election of senators. They seem to take the Hamiltonian rather than the Jeffersonian view, but the most popular reform in the United States today is the reform that has for its object the election of United States senators by direct vote. It has five times been endorsed by the national house of representatives—three times when the house of representatives was republican. It has been endorsed by nearly two-thirds of the states of the union, and there is probably not a state in the union in which it would not be endorsed at a popular election and yet in spite of the record made in the house of representatives and by the various states, this reform is rejected by a seven-to-one vote in a republican national convention.

Here are seven propositions upon which the republican party, in national convention assembled, has retreated from the position taken by that party in congress or from the position taken by the president. What have Roosevelt republicans to say? The president has awakened a spirit of reform within his party, he has at least revealed to the world that there are reformers in the republican party. Can that spirit now be quelled by a stand-pat convention? Millions of republicans have enlisted at the president's call to arms and are ready to march forward; will they feel their banners and turn back merely because the president acquiesces in the sounding of a retreat?—The Commoner.

As planned Mr. Miller will go across to return with her.

—DANGER IN DELAY.

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Grand Rapids People to Neglect.

—The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, numbness and Bright's troubles follow in marvellous succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in Grand Rapids.

J. H. Farley, living at 903 Baker St., Grand Rapids, Wis., says: "I am conscientiously of the fact that I have had no trouble since taking Doan's Kidney Pills. Previous to taking them I was suffering severely from a lame back and sharp pains across my loins, could hardly stoop or bend and the pains were so severe at night that I could not get to rest. My kidneys were in a disordered condition and the symptoms highly colored and at times the passages contained a sediment. Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, and I procured a box. My kidneys became normal and regular, and I felt better in every way. I know Doan's Kidney Pills to be a reliable remedy for such troubles, and I am glad to give them my endorsement." Price 50 cents. Ganderhous's July Forecast.

It was July the seventh, And Denver was gay With flags and with bunting. And hip and hooley And the mae in the chair Mopped the place where his hair Was wanted to grow. And he said, "Just to show The humor we're in, I am going to ask For a bon mot from Bryan Of Lincoln, Nebraska."

There was wit in his smile As the Fearless One bowed And filled the applause Of the good-natured crowd With a wave of his hand; And he said in his bland, Oratorical way, "We are gathered today On the bank of the Platte Where its clear waters lap The feet of the hills. As you'll find on the map." His smile was as soft As the breeze in the oak, And the multitude wondered, Unguessing the joke, "Oh he said, 'Seeing that We are right on the Platte, It ought to be true 'That the country will view Our party, my friends To be just and exact. As the only one having A Platte-form in fact.'"

July was named for Julius Caesar by Mark Antony. Mark was Caesar's protegee. His career was very much like that of Taft. Caesar liked him, and whenever he came around the great dictator would slap him on the back with some such exclamation as "Mark, I will make you a tribune!" He kept his word, too, and always delivered the goods to Mark at the Roman conventions. Mark made the funeral oration for Caesar, and he stirred up the Roman populace until it wrecked the base ball park looking for Brutus and the rest of the Blades. He was also the originator of the affinity idea. His affinity was Olesund's. And every time he returned from Egypt, his wife and his mother-in-law met him at the dock with a lot of golf clubs. He eventually became the virtual ruler of Egypt, and isolated the local option and other reforms, harked with the queen upon the moonlit Nile, and killed himself while he was happy, knowing it couldn't last.

The bill sent in by Teddy's aide For services to date, Has been received and duly filed. Till we can liquidate: About the third the household bills Will all come down the line. But the Democratic party will Not render us its White House Bill Until July the nine.

July the Fourth will dawn again, diverting circumstance, and the bubbling boy will light his punk before he finds his pants. He'll roll down stairs with screams of joy, contemptuous of bark, and start the battle when he burns the tail off of his shirt.

The youthful cannoner will charge his powder by the pound, and while he does it many kids will boldly crowd around. He'll light the fuse, and they will skip; but when they fail to get the proper thrill they'll go to see if it is lighted yet. A loud ker-bang (a scurry thing a cannon sometimes does) and the angels looking down will sigh, "By hoky-poke, it was!"

When England and her tyrant king Got too almighty skittish, The angry patriots turned out And blew up all the British; And when the Fourth comes around again, With no one to forbid it, We all blow one another up To show them how we did it.

On the 22nd the sun will enter the Zodiacal sign of Leo the Lion. This will make Mr. Roosevelt roar, and mollified, nature favors, rich manufacturers, reactionaries and liars will take to their holes. Sea lions will terrify the young navy recruits, and labor will knock off every twenty minutes and rush the growler.

Boys born under Leo make good harvest hands and want $8 a day, own conscientiously say that I have had no trouble since taking Doan's Kidney Pills. # CLEVELAND'S DEATH SHOCK TO COUNTRY

Ex-President Succumbs Unexpectedly, Though He Had Long Been Ill.

Great Democrat, Twice President of the United States, Dies at His Home in Princeton, Aged Seventy-One Years—Sketch of His Career, from Poor Boy to the Highest Elective Office in the World—Famous Venezuelan Message

Princeton, N. J.—Grover Cleveland, twice president of the United States, died suddenly Wednesday at his home here.

Mr. Cleveland had been a sufferer from gout and diabetes for more than two years. Early in 1906 he was stricken with an attack of indigestion, the result of diabetes, and for weeks was unable to partake of any except liquid nourishment.

A seizure in the south improved his health considerably, and his sudden demise comes as a complete surprise.

A statement, signed by Dr. Joseph B. Bryant, Dr. George R. Lockwood and Dr. J. M. Cannonball, explaining the death of their patient, was given out: "Mr. Cleveland for many years has suffered from repeated attacks of gastric intestinal origin. Also he has a long-standing organic disease of the heart and kidneys and heart failure complicated with pulmonary thrombosis and edema were the immediate causes of his death."

Cleveland's Early Struggles.

Grover Cleveland was born at Caldwell, Essex county, N. J., March 18, 1837. As a country boy, he left home when 16 years of age, charged not only with the necessity of making his own way in the world, but with the responsibility of providing for his mother and sisters. He fought the battle steadily and not only won, but achieved the highest honors that can come to an American.

His father was a Presbyterian minister. The son was christened Stephen Grover, in honor of Rev. Stephen Grover, who had preceded Rev. Mr. Cleveland in the pastorate of the little church at Caldwell. In even the earliest childhood of the boy, however, the parents omitted the name Stephen and addressed him always as Grover. The son always signed his name as Grover Cleveland.

In 1841 the family removed to Fayetteville, N. Y. They lived afterward at Clinton and Holland Patent, Grover, while he attended school, served in his spare hours as clerk in a country store.

His father died in 1853. His money, it was found, had been expended for the education of his children. It devolved upon Grover, then 16 years of age, to qualify as a contributing member of his family. Through his brother, who was connected with the New York Institution for the blind, he secured appointment there as assistant teacher.

Attracted by Law Career.

Two years gave him enough of teaching. He was ambitious to become a lawyer and to work in a field that offered more advantages than could be found in the east. The city of his choice was Cleveland, Ohio. All of his spare earnings having been sent to his mother, he required borrowed capital to get his start in the world. The amount of this capital was $50 and the friend who gave it to him was an old man who had been a deacon in his father's church. The lender's security was a note signed by the boy. That it was sufficient was proved two years later when he received a remittance covering the amount of the loan with interest.

Grover started in 1856 for Cleveland by way of the Erie canal. He stopped over for a day at Buffalo to visit a rich uncle, Lewis F. Allen. The latter prevailed upon the youthful pilgrim to make his home in Buffalo. He provided Grover with six weeks' work at $10 a week to assist in the completion of a hard book and secured for him a place in the office of a prominent law firm. As a law clerk he received $4 a week.

In 1859 Cleveland was admitted to the bar. He remained in the service of the law firm as managing clerk, in view of which dignity and honor his stipend was increased to $10 a week. On January 1, 1859, he was appointed assistant district attorney of Erie county. He allowed himself the bare necessities of life. Every surplus dollar was sent to his mother and sisters. At this time he was drafted for service in the union army. He borrowed money and sent a substitute to the front. Much was made of this fact in the political campaigns of later days. Friends of Cleveland replied that his action was in accordance with the custom of those days, when some members of a family went to war, while others remained to care for the dependent ones. Two of Cleveland's brothers were in the army.

Entrance into Politics.

In 1865 Cleveland was nominated for district attorney. He began the prac-

Which Reminds Us.

Somebody wants to know if we remember cattle sufferers. No, but did we. He remarks (with much wit, we think) that they were the original tire tracks.

The Epicures.

An eminent man who is a strict abstainer from both wine and animal food is obliged, in consequence of this peculiarity, to refrain from dining out. He entertains, however, an occasional kindred spirit. One such was recently at his table. "You ought to have seen 'em," said the eminent man's son, "rioting over boiled carrots."—Christian Register.

of government, but he gave been attention to the matters brought before him for action. When these seemed not to be for the public good his disapproval was expressed promptly and with the plainest words in his vocabulary. From 12 to 14 hours a day were devoted to the investigation of bills and reports submitted to him for action.

On July 11, 1884, in Chicago, he was nominated to oppose James G. Blaine in the campaign for the presidency. A slender plurality in New York state turned the scale and he became the first Democratic president since the civil war. The second time in his life that he visited Washington when he went to the capital to take office as president. His bearing on the stand erected for the inaugural revealed his masterful character to the experienced statesmen who sat around him. Stretched before him were more people than he had ever seen assembled for any purpose. They were enthusiastic, but neither their demonstrations nor thought of the grave responsibilities he was about to assume affected him in the slightest degree. He was calm as any man there having nothing at stake. When the time came to speak he advanced to the bar firmly and coolly as a lawyer in court. Deliberately and in a strong voice he delivered his address of 8,000 words, and he shattered all precedents by giving it from memory instead of from manuscript. He declared for the Monroe doctrine, economy, protection of the Indians, security of the freedmen, and for civil service.

Famous Venezuelan Message.

The death of Mr. Cleveland will recall to all the days when he was the most forgotten figure in American public life. Nothing which he ever did while president attracted more attention than the famous message he sent to congress in December, 1895, on the subject of Great Britain's controversy with Venezuela over the boundary between the latter country and British Guiana. The foundation for Mr. Cleveland's message was the note of Secretary of State Olney to Lord Salisbury, the British minister for foreign affairs. That note was written during the congressional recess, three months before congress convened, and before Mr.

Princeton.—The funeral of Grover Cleveland was marked by extreme simplicity. No pomp nor splendor had place in the ceremonies. There were no bands to play dirges on the way to the old Princeton cemetery, no military escort, no eulogy by the officiating clergymen.

The half mile of thoroughfare through which the cortege passed from Westland, the Cleveland home on Bayard lane, to the cemetery was policed by mounted troops, but they were there for police duty and as a measure of precaution in protecting the living president rather than for display in paying tribute to a departed chief executive.

Four clergymen officiated at the house and at the grave. They read the burial service from the Presbyterian Book of Common Worship, but offered no eulogy. This simple but impressive service was conducted by Dr. Henry Van Dyke of Princeton, Rev. Dr. Williams R. Richards, pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church of New York; Rev. Sylvester W. Beach, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Princeton, where the Cleveland family attended, and Rev. Matiland V. Bardett, former pastor of the same church.

There were no honorary pallbearers. Those who bore Mr. Cleveland's body to its final resting place in the Cleveland plot were Mayor George F. McClellan, Paul Morton, Commodore E. C. Benedict, Richard Watson Gilder of New York; Prof. Paul Van Dyke, Dean Andrew F. West, Prof. John G. Hibben, Julius S. Morgan, A. D. Ruggles, Prof. Howard McLaughlin, and Bayard Stockton of Princeton. The simple Presbyterian service was said at the grave, the casket lowered into the ground, and one of the country's most distinguished citizens had become but a memory. A silver plate on the casket bore the inscription: "Grover Cleveland, March 18, 1837-June 24, 1908."

President Roosevelt, Gov. Fort of New Jersey, Gov. Hughes of New York, Gov. Hoke Smith of Georgia, members of President Cleveland's cabinet, and other notable citizens attended the funeral. After the ceremony the president left Princeton at once in his private car Signal.

It was an honorable title. Buffalo had long been in the grip of unscrupulous politicians.

Grown arrogant from power and rich from graft, they had come to regard rule wholly to their interest as a settled right. Mayor Cleveland disabused their minds. Rates on the treasury were blocked by his veto. Officeholders were warned that their allegiance was due the people. Claims of friendship and the pressure of powerful influence were without effect upon him. His sturdy fight in the interest of his "employer" were widely published and attracted attention throughout the state.

So it happened that when the Democrats in 1882 cast about for a candidate for governor their eye naturally turned toward Buffalo. Grover Cleveland was placed at the head of their ticket. He was elected over Charles J. Folger, then secretary of the treasury, by 200,000 plurality.

Cleveland's record as mayor and his overwhelming victory in the election made him a national figure. There was widespread curiosity as to the course he would pursue as governor. He gained new celebrity through his vetoes. He refrained from discourtesy on public affairs and framed no theory.

ABSENCE OF POMP MARKS FUNERAL

In Accordance with the Wishes of the Widow, Final Ceremonies for Ex-President Cleveland Are of the Most Simple Description—Prominent Men Present.

Among notable utterances of the late ex-President Cleveland the following will be longest remembered:

Public office is a public trust. After an existence of nearly 20 years of almost innocuous desuetude these laws are brought forth. It is a condition which confronts us—not a theory.

Party honesty is party expediency. If the wind is in the south or west so much the better, but let's go fishing, wherever the wind may be.

Don't give your friend wild duck uncoked unless his wife knows how to cook it; the gift will be discredited in the eating.

The duck-hunter is born, not made. I would not have our people sober; but I would have them thoughtful and patriotic.

I do not believe that nations any more than individuals can violate the rules of honesty and fair-dealing.

Tread lightly, gentlemen, for you have to do with temples of the Holy Ghost. (This to assembled physicians.)

CLUB WOMEN HURT

TALLY-HO FULL OF DELEGATES IS UPSET NEAR NEWPORT.

THREE ARE BADLY INJURED

Mrs. Sarah Shute, from Coon Rapids, Ia., Dies of Heart Failure in the Rhode Island City.

Newport, R. I.—The 2,000 club women who came here from Boston Friday for an outdoor went back greatly saddened as a result of an accident which caused serious injuries to three of their number.

Many of the visitors, who were delegates to the biennial session of the general Federation of Women's Clubs in Boston, had been enjoying carriage drives about the city, and it was the occupants of a tally-ho coach bound for Easton's beach who met disaster. When the coach had reached the middle of a steep hill in North road, one of the forward axles suddenly broke and about instantly the vehicle collapsed. Nearly all of the women were caught beneath the coach, which turned completely over. Private automobiles carried the injured to the Newport hospital.

Most of those taken to the hospital were able to leave the institution after they had been treated for bruises and other minor injuries, and only three remain. These are:

Mrs. Henry Wynn, Malden, Mass., suffering from fracture of the skull. Mrs. J. P. Davenport, Watertown, Mass., collar bone and three ribs fractured.

Mrs. Sundeau, Lincoln, Neb., ankle dislocated and suffering also from bruises and cuts about the head.

The condition of Mrs. Wynn is regarded as very critical. It is thought that although badly injured Mrs. Davenport and Mrs. Sundeau will recover.

Mrs. Sarah Shute of Coon Rapids, Ia., who came out as a delegate to the general Federation of Women's Clubs, died Friday night of heart failure at the Newport hospital. Mrs. Shute joined the excursion of delegates to Newport, coming from Boston by way of Providence and thence by steamer to this city. On the steamer she was taken ill and when the boat reached here she was removed to the hospital. She was 55 years old.

"My son Clyde was almost completely covered with eczema. Physicians treated him for nearly a year without helping him any. His head, face, and neck were covered with large scales which he would rub until they fell off. Then blood and matter would run out and that would be worse. Friends coming to see him said that if he got well he would be disfigured for life. When it seemed as if he could possibly stand it no longer, I used some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent. That was the first night for nearly a year that he slept. In the morning there was a great change for the better. In about six weeks he was perfectly well. Our leading physician recommends Cuticura for eczema. It has not been many years since the popular expressions in the east to denote remoteness and outlandishness were such place names as Oshkosh and Kalamazoo. Yet both these places are now bustling cities having a population of more than 25,000; and each is approximately as near the geographical center of population as Chicago and St. Louis.

The standard expression to denote rural obscurity is "Podunk." Everybody has heard of Podunk; but where is it? There is no Podunk in the list of 62,000 federal post offices. The United States board on geographic names has thrown up a little light on the subject by describing recently as follows: "Quabong, pond in Brookfield town, Worcester county, Massachusetts. Not North, nor Podunk." Is there a Podunk, anywhere?—Sunday Magazine.

One of Bill Nye's.

Referring to a real estate transaction made by one Peter Minut, way back in the year 1639, Bill Nye, in his history of the United States, declared: "New York was afterwards sold for $24; the whole island. When I think of this I go into my family gallery, which I also use as a swear room, and tell those ancestors what I think of them. Where were they when New York sold for $24?"

The humor of this strikes deeply when one stops to consider what has been the outcome of this original investment. Peter Minut, with trinkets and a few bottles of rum, so delighted the native Indians that they gladly turned over to him the whole of Manhattan island, now the heart of Greater New York. He Had Broken Something.

Mrs. Wilson had a young Japanese servant who had a habit of trying to conceal from his mistress any breakage of dishes of which he chanced to be guilty. The good lady explained that it was wicked to do, and that whenever he broke anything, she would punish him. One day, while Mrs. Wilson was entertaining some friends in the parlor, the Japanese suddenly appeared in the doorway. His teeth were bared in a childlike smile, and his eyes sparkled with the light of conscious victory.
